Great Wine: The Quest

Jeff Zacharia, President

Awe-inspiring it is to watch passionate collectors with unlimited resources amass treasures of quality and in quantity that stretch the imagination. How could the Havemeyers acquire so many paintings by Degas; how could William Randolph Hearst ever find enough space to display all those late medieval and renaissance tapestries and sculptures, or the Saatchis all those contemporary paintings? Alexander the Greats of the collecting world, mega-collectors like these are as acquisitive as they are inquisitive, and their pursuit of the finest collectibles is a form of conquest, in which the pursuit is as much fun as the pleasure of ownership.

So it is with the extraordinary collection of wine, which comprises this entire catalog. This collection is all about the best producers, vineyards and vintages. It is a best of the best collection. Rarely have I seen the breadth and depth of this cellar. A collection like this could only be put together with tremendous thought, energy and great knowledge of wine. This consigner was incredibly energetic in amassing his collection, which he did on his own. After many years of intensive buying, he felt that he had more wine than he needed. This offering represents less than a third of his of his current inventory. He has decided to reduce the size of the collection to a more manageable level. He now believes about 30,000 bottles of the world's greatest wines should provide adequate supply and variety for future enjoyment. Several smaller sales have taken place, but this is and will be by far the largest.

The core of the collection is the finest European wine produced in the twentieth century. This reflects the fact the collection was relatively recently formed; with most purchases occurring between 1995 and 2004. The owner wisely sought out the finest and rarest new wines soon after release. With help from many sources in the trade, he was able to acquire quantities of rare wines that in some instances exceeded importers' entire allocations. On occasion Burgundian and Rhone rarities were purchased directly from domains, as well as from other collectors who are personal friends of some of the world's greatest winemakers. The balance of the collection—and much of the “sizzle”—is provided by older and often extremely rare examples of wines made by previous generations operating the same domains that provide such great wine today.

Everything offered below shows the demanding nature of a collector in pursuit of quality. If one had to choose the most extraordinary aspect of this offering, it would have to be Burgundy, and in particular the incredible quantity and range of wines made by the great winemaking genius Henri Mayer, now in his mid-80's. From a pair of the thirty-six numbered bottles of the 1959 Richebourg recently sold from Mayer's personal cellar, to cases of magnums of the 1996 Vosne Romanee Cros Parantoux, of which only 145 magnums were produced, to magnums of Richebourg 1978 hand carried from Mayer's cellar to America by a long-time collector, and so many vintages of Richebourg, Echezeaux, and Cros Parantoux in which hundreds at most, and sometimes only dozens of cases were produced, when will we ever again see a vein of Mayer so deep and so rich?

The range of other great Burgundy producers also bears mention. From DRC, the collection boasts seventeen vintages of Romanee-Conti back to the ultra-rare 1945, twenty-four vintages of La Tache back to 1938, and seventeen vintages of Richebourg back to 1929. There is wide range and great depth of Grand and Premier Cru Burgundies from Leroy from the 1990 through the 2000 vintages, with a good selection of older rarities from the 1937, 1949, 1953, and 1959 vintages. And Vogue is amazing—twenty five vintages of Musigny back to 1919, a major collection unto itself. Roumier, Rousseau, and Meo-Camuzet are also very well represented. And for white Burgundy, Ramonet, Leflaive, and Coche-Dury—the grand masters—take the prize.

The offering of Bordeaux, too, is wide-ranging, with top-growth chateau represented by case quantities of “modern wines,” with a selection of great classic vintages ranging back to the 1920’s. Most unusual, however, is the selection of 19th Century Bordeaux, and Right Bank wines from the 1921 through 1961 vintages. Bottles of the 1811, 1832, 1864, and 1865 Lafite, as well as the 1864 and 1865 Latour, are of similar provenance to those tasted by Michael Broadbent at the Jaeger tasting in 2001 and noted in his recent book “Vintage Wine” as some of the greatest pre-phylloxera bottles he has ever tasted. Multiple examples of extremely rare magnums of Bordeaux Right Bank wines from 1900 to 1961—Petrus, Cheval Blanc, L’Eglise-Clinet, and Lafleur—reflect the excitement over the “rediscovery” of these wines, many of which were give perfect or near-perfect scores by Robert Parker in the third edition of his influential book “Bordeaux” published in 1998. When Fritz and I were at the consignor’s cellar to help prepare for this auction, he decided, in celebration of our visit, to open for us a magnum of Lafleur 1947. Offered blind, the wine was magical—deep in color, with surprisingly little yellowing at the rim. The flavors hovered between the generous warm rich berry pie of Merlot and the ineffable sweet cherry and sweet citric-infused flavors and aromas of Pinot Noir. We were sure the wine was 40-60 years old; what must have been formidable tannins had softened and receded, and the wine thrived on considerable acidity which atomized the aromas like an exotic perfume. Amazing! The cork, while quite old and crumbly, was fully stamped—as with the corks of all these Right Bank magnums, sourced on the Continent.

Scrolling through the 2,000-plus lots in the catalogue, one is struck by the quality of the producers, and the fact that the collection is not all-inclusive, but producer driven, and focused entirely on the top wines from each domaine. Single-vineyard wines from Guigal, La Chapelle from Jaboulet, Chateau Rayas from Rayas, Celestins from Bonneau, Hommage a Jacques Perrin from Beaucastel. Giacosa, Gaya, Giacomo Conterno from Italy. Sauternes—virtually all Yquem.

Fortunately for those of us who are not Hearst, Havemeyer, or Saatchi, auction is democratic, and affords all of us (who can afford) the opportunity to pursue one or many lots of the magnificent wines offered in this collection. After building a strong relationship with the seller over the years, both at retail and auction, we are privileged and honored to offer one of the greatest consignments ever auctioned, enabling collectors and enthusiasts a chance to acquire some of the greatest wines of all time, in depth and breadth. We fashioned a sale that was not just loose ends, but rather a collection, with balance, selection, and rarity. Chances like this only come around once in a lifetime. I am looking forward to seeing you at the auction.

45 6 bottles per lot $350-550

CHATEAU CROIX DE LABRIE 2000*St Emilionowc*

"It boasts superb purity along with the essence of cassis and black cherry liqueur-like fruit intermixed with graphite, chocolate, espresso, and new oak notes. Sweet, layered, and luxuriously rich, with a wealth of fruit and glycerin, this stunningly full-bodied St.-Emilion should be drinkable young, yet age nicely for 15+ years. Great stuff!...95." WA 4/03.

46 12 bottles per lot $800-1200

DOMAINE DE CHEVALIER 1964*Graves, Cru Classefour bottom neck, one very top shoulder*

47 5 bottles per lot $260-380

CHATEAU DUCRU BEAUCAILLOU 1995*St Julien, Deuxieme Cru Classe*

"The greatest Ducru produced this century. Breathtaking aromas of berries, violets, vanilla and blackberries set the stage for a wine that's full-bodied and tannic, yet very fine and long in the mouth. This has fabulous structure for aging...97." WS 1/98.

48 12 bottles per lot $800-1200

CHATEAU DUCRU BEAUCAILLOU 1996*St Julien, Deuxieme Cru Classeowc*

"...sweet cassis can be found in the nose of the highly-structured 1996 Ducru Beaucaillou. A superb Saint-Julien, it offers a saturated, dark ruby color and an intense, backward core of rich, ripe dark fruits. This spicy, lead pencil-laden wine is amazingly long, exquisitely balanced...96." WA 4/03.

all owc, all rated 90 points or above by Wine Advocate, average Wine Advocate score: 95 points

"If you're asking whether the 2000 Bordeaux, now in bottle, live up to their reputation, and whether you should buy some, the answer is yes. A vintage such as 2000 in Bordeaux comes along once in a lifetime. Not only is the year an icon for a new millennium, it is a vintage that produced scores of outstanding wines in France's premium wine region. Nearly every Bordeaux winemaker made serious claret, from the grandest chateaux to the simplest vineyards. And consumers don't have to spend a fortune." WS 3/03.

BORDEAUX "SUPER EIGHT" 1962-2000:Ausone, Cheval Blanc, Haut Brion, Lafite Rothschild, Latour, Margaux, Mouton-Rothschild and Petrus

Coming up now is one of the most amazing offerings of the super eight wines of Bordeaux I have ever seen. First we have over 130 lot sof these great wines from 1962 to 2000. After that we have nearly 100 lots from 1805 to 1961. 1805 to 1961 represents Bordeaux's rise to power. It is during this first period that world really woke up to the greatness of Bordeaux and more specifically of these eight Chateaux. At different times during this period each of these Chateaux was at the top its game and producing the best wine of the group. The fact that we can still offer wines from 200 years ago is an amazing testament to their wine making abilities.

1962 to 2000 represents, for these eight Chateaux, their consolidation of power. It is during this period that the whole world recognized these Chateaux as producing the top wines of the world. Demand for these wines dominates the high end of both the auction and the retail markets. The reason for this is simple: There is no other wine producing region in the world where year after year, there is so much top quality wine produced in any significant quantities. Wine lovers, who know they want the best, always know that they can turn to one of these super eight Chateaux and find what they are looking for. JZ

"This may turn out even better than the 1995, due to the 2000's layers of fine tannins and fruit, but I can't give more than 100 points. It's muscular, yet classy. Breathtaking aromas of black licorice, violets, berry and cherry, with light hints of spices and minerals. It's all there in the nose. Full-bodied, with an ultrafine tannin structure and a finish that goes on for minutes...100." WS 4/03.

18TH & 19TH CENTURY FINE AND RARE BORDEAUX:

The following is a very deep incredible collection of pre-1962 vintages from all major producers, including many great vintages: Legendary 1870 Lafite, 1864 and 1865 Lafite and Latour, 1945 Mouton, 1947 Lafleur, 1961 Latour a Pomerol, 1921 L'Eglise Clinet, and glorious 1961 Petrus.

Tasting great wines from the 19th century is something that I have only done a few times in my life but I treasure every experience I have had. To drink a wine that is 150 or 200 years old that is not just alive but still has good fruit and complexity, great power and depth and great length is a testament to the power of these Chateaux. Is it worth the effort? Absolutely! Wines from the 18th and 19th centuries in such good condition rarely appear in auction anymore. JZ

"The wine that has always enjoyed the greatest reputation of the vintage is Cheval Blanc's 1921...at this tasting, the wine was unreal... Thick, unctuously-textured, with oodles of fruit, this huge, massive, full-bodied wine must have possessed 14% alcohol. It could easily have been mistaken for the 1947 or 1949. One of the unmistakable impressions left by the entire Rodenstock tasting (every series was served blind) was how frequently the less-renowned Pomerols and, to a lesser extent, St.-Emilions triumphed over their more renowned and aristocratic brethren from the Medoc and Graves. In the flight of 1921s, the right bank wines were examples of profoundly concentrated, extraordinary Bordeaux...98." WA 2/96

Michael Broadbent on the 1947 Bordeaux vintage: "The second of the three great post-war vintages. An increasingly hot summer followed by harvesting in almost tropical conditions. The grapes had an exceptionally high sugar content but the heat caused serious fermentation problems, resulting in quite a few wines suffering from high volatile acidity. CHATEAU LAFITE 1811

Pauillac, Premier Cru Classe

top shoulder, capsule cut to reveal fully branded cork, recorked at the Chateau in 1986

"1811, the famous "Comet Vintage," was celebrated for producing top quality wines throughout Europe. I was fortunate enough to taste an 1811 Lafitte, Bordeaux-bottled by J.J. Van der Berghe, at Wilf Jaeger's on June 5, 2001. The color was a bright medium ruby, with a tawny rim. The wine provided a fascinating tasting experience. The aromas and flavors at first were medicinal—common in very old wine—with notes of lanolin, peppermint, and malt extract. Then the fruit started peeking through. After fifteen minutes, the medicinal element gave way to essences of chartreuse, and at thirty minutes, the fruit was even more prominent, and the wine rounder and much less medicinal. After that—my glass was empty. Elie de Rothschild gave a backhanded compliment to the 1811 Lafite in a letter describing early Bordeaux production methods to James Gabler, the author of "Passions: The Wines and Travels of Thomas Jefferson." "From my experience and tasting and hearsay, I think that on the contrary the vinification methods were much cruder and the wine much harder. They often left the wine on the grapes for two or three months and that is one of the reasons I have drunk 1811 Lafite that was not dead." FH

CHATEAU LAFITE ROTHSCHILD 1864

Pauillac, Premier Cru Classe

bottom neck, capsule cut to reveal fully branded cork, recorked at the Chateau in 1992

"I have been privileged to taste, to drink, this wine—reputedly the finest wine of the vintage and the greatest Lafite of the century—on seven occasions. Whether Queen Victoria, a regular sherry and claret drinker, was fully aware of it's stellar quality, I do not know, but it was certainly in the royal cellars and being consumed in the mid-1980s. A perfect bottle from the Chateau, recorked, at the Overton tasting in 1979; again in 1987, and another, recorked by the maitre de chai in 1986, at Flatt's Lafite tasting in 1988. All superb. Next, an almost too sweet bottle, labelled 'Lafite Bon (Baron) de Rothschild, R. Galos' at a Rodenstock tasting in 1995, and, very recently, perfection, complete, harmonious. Last tasted at Wilfred Jaeger's, June 2001...★★★★★." MB

"Another great vintage, sturdier than the 1864, and, in my experience, the most dependable vintage of the period. Another very abundant crop harvested early, from 6 September. "One of the all time greats and at its best, a powerhouse, massively endowed with every conceivable component. In fact, such a powerful and tannic wine that it was virtually undrinkable for half a century... Most recently, rising to the occasion, a bottle recorked in 1980: still fairly deep with a fine mahogany-mature edge. Just after decanting it, it emitted a deliciously Mouton-like spicy scent. After 30 minutes in the glass it reminded me of Heitz Martha's Vineyard Cabernet: pure eucalyptus on the palate; dry, its fine flavour matching the bouquet, wonderful length, still buoyed up by its original tannins. Last noted at Wilfred Jaeger's in the hills south of San Francisco... At best...★★★★★." MB 6/01.

CHATEAU LAFITE ROTHSCHILD 1959*Pauillac, Premier Cru Classevery top shoulder, torn label, capsule cut to reveal fully branded cork, Nicolas Selection"One of the best-ever Lafites...The extraordinary ability to exude not only an immediate cedary perfume but, very much a Lafite specialty, the way it opens up further avenues of fragrance and subtle by-paths, lingering in the mouth. Each time you pick up your glass you notice another facet of scent and taste. It also happens to be a good drink, still a perfect beverage...★★★★★." MB 12/00.*

CHATEAU LATOURCHATEAU LATOUR 1864Pauillac, Premier Cru Classejust below top shoulder, lightly bin-soiled label, cork fully stamped with modern Chateau foil, foil cut, believed recorked in 1980 as 1980 is visible on the cork"An exquisite bottle at the Wine Dinner hosted by Carl Geisel and Hardy Rodenstock at the Konigshof in Munich in March 2001: fabulous, spicy, eucalyptus-scented bouquet; perfect flavour, weight and balance. Still tannic. Most recently, brought cool from his cellar to compare with the Lafite: a bottle with a pictorial label...★★★★★." MB*

CHATEAU LATOUR 1864*Pauillac, Premier Cru Classeupper shoulder, lightly bin-soiled label, cork fully stamped with modern Chateau foil, foil cut, believed recorked in 1980 as 1980 is visible on the cork*

401 1 bottle per lot $8000-13,000

CHATEAU LATOUR 1865*Pauillac, Premier Cru Classetop shoulder, lightly bin-soiled label, lightly nicked label "...More recently at Rodenstock's March 2001 tasting, a bottle from the Café Anglais: lovely, rich, faultless bouquet; amazingly sweet, perfection despite its 1865 tannic bite. Three months later, as with the 1864s, a bottle recorked in 1980, casually brought out from Jaeger's cellar to compare with the Lafite: still fairly deep, with a good mature rim; eucalyptus noted yet again on the nose; good flavour, balance, condition, length. Faultless, even allowing for a slight touch of the vintage's tannic astringency. Last noted at Jaeger's tasting, June 2001. At best ★★★★★." MB*

Michael Broadbent on the 1899 Bordeaux vintage: "The first of the renowned fin de siecle twin vintages. A wellnigh perfect growing season culminating in an abundant harvest. Wine of stature to match, yet with a certain delicacy and great finesse...★★★★★." MB

CHATEAU LATOUR 1899*Pauillac, Premier Cru Classevery top shoulder, capsule previously cut to verify vintage, label states recorked in 1993*

"Dark garnet with considerable amber, the nearly perfect 1899 exhibited a stunningly sweet nose of roasted herbs, smoked meats, underbrush, cedar, and sweet fruit with noticeable overripeness, as evidenced by marmalade notes. In the mouth, the wine was full-bodied, plush, and opulent, with roasted coffee flavors competing with sweet glycerin...98." WA 6/00.

406 1 bottle per lot $3000-5000

CHATEAU LATOUR 1900*Pauillac, Premier Cru Classetop shoulder, facsimile label, missing foil, partially legible branded cork*

"One of Latour's great vintages... A sweet, ripe, harmonious thoroughbred, which after 75 minutes in the glass, soared opulently and exotically. One the palate the sweetness of impending decay but still with ripe, rich fruit, extract, tannin and acidity, and fragrant aftertaste. Last tasted in Zurich, Oct 1994. At best ★★★★★." MB

CHATEAU LATOUR 1928*Pauillac, Premier Cru Classetwo into neck, one very top shoulder, one missing capsule, two cut capsules, fully branded corks, Nicolas Selection*

"A famously tannic wine, yet it's now mellowed wonderfully. Amber-red color, with gorgeous aromas of mint, plums and minerals. Full-bodied, with big, velvety tannins and lots of ripe berries and tobacco on the finish...96." WS 8/00.

409 3 bottles per lot $5500-9000

CHATEAU LATOUR 1929*Pauillac, Premier Cru Classetop shoulder, bin-soiled label, capsule cut to reveal fully branded cork*

"Superlative...Always deeply coloured, its bouquet variously described – mainly inadequately – as rich but restrained old cedar, spicy (eucalyptus once again, cloves and sage), 'medicinal' Pauillac, and so forth. On the palate generally sweet, soft and luscious for Latour...velvety, elongated. More recently a perfect magnum in a 'flight' of Latours at a Rodenstock weekend...★★★★★." MB 12/95.
